Watery grave

Water Department crews started to remove the thousands of dead fish from Spring Fork Lake south of Sedalia Monday morning. The fish are to be buried near the dam of the lake. A combination of low water level, thick ice and snow cover prevented sunlight from getting to the plants that produce the oxygen for the fish, thus causing the kill. The continuing drought has also dropped the lake from about 160 surface acres to only 10 acres. At right, a large catfish floats among smaller fish.

Foreigners meet Amin

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) - Ugandan President Idi Amin today met with a small group of Americans and other foreigners working for Uganda Airlines, congratulated them on their work and said the people of Uganda consider them "their brothers and sisters," Radio Uganda said.

The radio said Amin also sent a message to President Sese Seke Mobutu of Zaire, saying the only reason he summoned Americans to a meeting at Entebbe Airport on Wednesday was because he "wants to thank them jointly for their service and not because of anything else as some people might Reports reaching Nairobi said Amin is also summoning Britons to the meeting. British diplomats in Uganda and in Nairobi said they were checking reports that the 200-strong British community was ordered to be at Entebbe along with an estimated 240 Americans.

The meetings with the airline workers and the message to Mobutu, as well as a phone call to an American newsman in Nairobi, were apparently further efforts by the Ugandan strongman to allay fears about his reasons for summoning the

His seemingly conciliatory attitude followed harsh warnings to the United States Sunday not to attempt an Israelistyle rescue invasion of Entebbe and the placing of Uganda's armed forces on

Lawmakers to focus on crime

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) -Crime and punishment will occupy the attention of the Missouri legislature this week, as the House considers a death penalty and the Senate takes up complete revision of the state's Criminal

The death penalty would be the punishment in certain instances for those convicted of "capital murder," under terms of a bill sponsored by Cameron Democrat Bob Griffin.

Missouri has a death penalty law, enacted in 1975, but its constitutionality is being questioned before the state Supreme Court in the light of a U.S. Supreme Court decision which found laws similar to Missouri's to be unconstitutional.

Under the statute, a person is guilty of 'The Americans are my sons and capital murder if he kills another person with premeditation.

No other sentence but death may be handed down for a person convicted of capital murder under the state's present

Griffin's bill would define capital murder in the same manner as the present state law, but it would give the judge and jury a chance to assess a punishment other than the death penalty.

After a person is convicted of capital murder, a presentence hearing would be required to determine what type of punishment should be imposed. During that hearing, additional evidence may be introduced in mitigation or aggravation of the punishment.

Revision of the Criminal Code has been the subject of debate in the state Senate for the past few years.

It occupied several days in both the 1975 and 1976 legislative sessions, only to be blocked in the last hours of the session each of those years by Senate opponents.

Chances of passing the massive bill are better this year, since three major opponents - St. Louis Democrats Ray Howard, Lawrence Lee and Don Gralike - have been succeeded through recent elections and are no longer in the Senate.

The bill is made up of 326 legal-size pages. It completely rewrites the state's criminal laws in an effort to avoid duplication and it modernizes the statutes, eliminating such things as the crime of driving a stagecoach while intoxicated.

In addition to the House and Sanate floor action, 25 House committees and 14 Senate committees have scheduled meetings for this week.

Among the bills to come before the committees are the allowance of a state lottery and bingo in the House Local Government Committee, and the creation of a Missouri Bureau of Investigation in the Senate Judiciary Committee

Independents up gas prices

Sedalia's independent service stations, which traditionally have offered cheaper gas than the name brands, closed that gap to varying degrees late last week.

All independent service stations posted 3-cent increases for their gas, bringing the self-service cost up to about 55.9 cents a gallon on the average. This brought prices more in line with the major name brands, although some of these continued to sell regular gas at a few cents higher than the independents.

All of the independent stations in Sedalia appeared to post the 3-cent price hikes at the same time last Thursday.

One dealer, asked about the simultaneous increases by all stations, replied: "The word gets around. We have to check regularly to see what others are charging. We then contact our head office, tell them what the situation is, and do what they tell us."

A tipped womb simply refers to the fact that the uterus is not positioned so that its dome (blind end) is pointed above or toward the pubic bone. In the adult female the uterus is like a pear with the blossom end pointed toward the wall of the abdomen and the stem end or cervix directed downward, opening at the top or near the blind end, of the vaginal canal. When the uterus is tipped it is usually "retrodisplaced" meaning the uterus has fallen

League of Women Voters revises government booklets

The local League of Women Voters has just assembled a revised edition of their "Know Your Local Government" booklet that was first published by the League in 1972.

Answers to most questions about Sedalia and Pettis County governments, office holders and salaries, taxes and services, public education system, administration of justice, registration and voting are answered in the booklet. Revision of the booklet was made necessary by Pettis County's second class status. The information was gathered and compiled by league members.

Copies of the publication are free and may be obtained by calling the league number, 826-4051.

County and city "Voter's Keys", listing elected officials and their terms of office, have been compiled and are available free from the league, the county clerk's office or at the Municipal Building. Also available through the league is the state Voter's Key listing names and addresses of all officials in Jefferson City, officers of the Missouri House and Senate and chairmen of House and

The league's annual finance drive begins this week and potential contributors will be visited by league members who will also be distributing copies of the "Know Your Local Government" booklet.

'In order to continue to expand league service," Mrs. Esther Ellison, president of the local group said, "interest and financial support from the community is needed."

Mrs. Ellison went on to say that the aims of the league include "promoting citizen interest and informed participation in government on all levels. We offer and distribute informative material on many subjects, hold non-partisan forums for candidates seeking public office and our members have volunteered their time and efforts to city county and state boards and commissions.'

In 1976, the national organization of the league sponsored the presidential debates and the local league published voters guides in The Democrat-Capital before the primary and general elections.

League membership is open to all citizens 18 or older.

Polly's pointers

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY - I am answering Mrs. R.O. whose cat brought fleas into the house and she cannot get rid of them. When I was a girl our house was infested with fleas that my father decided were being brought in from the hog barn. He bought 100 pounds of regular barn salt used in feed and sprinkled it all over the floors in the house and the barn. He left it there for three days and when it was swept up the problem was gone. (Test effect of salt on rugs and floors first.) - MRS. B.

DEAR POLLY — To save on the cost of garbage bags we simply rinse out all milk cartons, fill with garbage, fasten and then put them in the can. This works great for us. - DEBORAH.

DEAR POLLY - I am enjoying wearing a "pants petticoat" that was given to me - especially during the cold weather. This gave me an idea for a cheaper one that could be made out of any of your grandmother's long petticoats that may still be in the attic. Cut to the size of panties at the top and narrow to 14 inches at the bottom. Also panties could have extra legs added to the bottom and made so they are about 14 inches around the lower edge. I find one feels so much warmer. - PAULINE.

DEAR POLLY - Many organizations such as the Scouts, P.T.A. etc. need cardboards for signs and display purposes. Display cardboard and posterboard are expensive so they might find the following not only helpful but economical. Apply a coat or two of quick drying wall paint, lay flat to dry and you have very good and inexpensive material to use for signs and display work. - MR. J.H.R.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY - I have a winter coat with an outer coat of vinyl casting leather that is marked with ballpoint ink on the outside. The label in the coat reads: "Do not dry clean. Brush stained or soiled area with lukewarm water and mild soap. Do not use detergents." These cleaning instructions have been followed but the ink marks remain. Do you have any suggestions? — RICK.

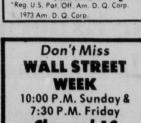

DEAR RICK - The best thing I know for removing ballpoint ink marks is hair spray. But do test it on a hidden spot on your coat as nothing is infallible in these days of miracle fabrics. - POLLY.

Woodcutters business booming

CAMBRIDGE, Wis. (AP) -Jack Folz is a holdover from a backwoods era whose time has come again

His woodcutting business is flourishing in this southern Wisconsin community as commercial campgrounds, farms and homeowners step up their demand for winter-fuel alternatives to the rising cost of conventional fuels.

"Solar heating is still way out of reach, sometimes $10,000 for a unit, and fuel oil prices are going up," he said. "People are really busy buying old-fashioned, woodburning stoves.

Folz, 32, who had been cutting pulp wood since age 12 in northern Minnesota, moved to Cambridge in 1974 from Ely, Minn., equipped only with "my two hands" and a power chain saw.

He set up shop as a seller of fireplace wood, cutting dead and diseased timber on neighboring farms and in Kettle Moraine State Forest.

As the energy crisis stimulated the sales of fireplaces, Franklin stoves and pot-belly stoves, Folz proenough to afford motor-driven wood splitter to replace his 16-pound maul.

Yet business is getting so good that he fears big business may exhaust the resource.

He lives with an Irish setter in a small trailer, cooking on his own wood-burning stove, and earns what he calls a comfortable living by selling an estimated 500 tons of wood an-

Insurance director resigns

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) - Insurance Division Director Henry W. Edmiston announced his resignation today. saying he hoped his successor would be able to remain in the job long enough to give some continuity to it.

Edmiston, hired two years ago by Gov. Christopher S. Bond, made his resignation effective March 25, and said he had no established plans for the near future.

He did say, however, that any new employment would be in the insurance

As director of the division of insurance, Edmiston was responsible for monitoring insurance practices throughout the state. He described the post as "a delicate position that can be easily misused or abused.'

The insurance division chief is nominated by the director of the Department of Consumer Affairs, Regulation and Licensing, James Sullivan, and is appointed by the governor.

Sullivan said it would be a week to 10 days before a new insurance division director is named, and he thanked Edmiston for staying on in the post while Gov. Joseph P. Teasdale eased into office Mansion tours after his defeat of Bond in the November general election.

appropriate that Teasdale be allowed to appoint a director of insurance who is part of his own management team."

He said there had been 10 or 11 division directors in the last 25 years, and that he hoped the new director would be able to stay on long enough to bring about needed changes in Missouri Insurance laws.

Among the measures Edmiston has endorsed during the current legislative session were an unfair insurance practices act and a revised no fault insurance

But he added that his influence before the legislature had been diluted because of the uncertainty over his job.

"I was looked upon as a lame duck director," he said.

Top capital insider is Clark Clifford

By JACK ANDERSON and LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON - The back rooms of Washington are prowled by an exclusive breed we call The Insiders. They whisper into the ears of the mighty, influence policy, arrange favors for clients but never answer to the public.

They hold no official status, yet they have pipelines into the highest offices in the land. One moment, they may be operating as fixers without portfolio in behalf of high-paying clients. The next, they may be handling some White House assignment too delicate to be performed by anyone in official position.

Of The Insiders, none is more polished, more charming or more durable than is Clark Clifford. He is always gracious to the press, always self-assured, always quietly competent.

He has a rare talent for remaining in the background of the news, directing politicians as though they were actors on his stage and allowing them to take the bows. Perhaps it is this quality that has helped him endure through the administrations of four presidents — more than a quarter-century at the pinnacle.

Lyndon Johnson called him "Just-A-Minute Clifford," with the explanation: "At the end of the discussion, when we think we're all agreed, Clark will say, 'Now just a minute." Clifford has never been afraid to say no to presidents, and he has the ability to put things in perspective and view them without emotion.

With the election of Jimmy Carter, Clifford has resumed his quiet role as Mr. Insider. He has ben offering advice to his fifth President so unobtrusively that almost no one has noticed. At this writing, he is on a mission in the Mediterranean for the President. He will apply his special soothing salve on the antagonists in the Cyprus wrangle. If anyone can bring home a settlement, Clifford should.

The pressing demands of public service, meanwhile, have left him with time to turn a dollar. Clifford is, of course, tight-lipped about his legal fees. Yet he has one of the most lucrative practices in tion, Clifford has long ranked at the top of angles of the federal triangle.

But Washington abounds with lesser hustlers, fixers and five-percenters. The energy crisis has brought them swarming into Washington like prospectors to a gold rush. The Federal Energy Administration is charged with protecting the public from the more larcenous manipulators. The agency's secret files contain a multitude of energy scandals, great and small, dating back to the 1973 Araboil embargo.

The case of the Parish Oil Company is a typical example. This was a small Metairie, La., oil firm which has quietly sunk into the financial quicksand. But a couple of years ago, it was drilling for oil in the back rooms of government.

The company clamored for fuel allocations by the millions of gallons, far more fuel than it appeared to need. These oil explorations were directed by an ingratiating company executive named Ray Morton.

He quickly found that the best route to the Federal Energy Administration was through the offices of a powerful politician. Once he used then-Speaker Carl Albert's office to arrange a meeting with the right people at the FEA. Morton emerged triumphantly from this meeting with the opening that led to a precious fuel allocation for Parish Oil.

Incidentally, we've learned that Morton was put in touch with FEA by 3:1,8. Albert's former assistant, Howard Yourman, who told us he had looked upon Morton as a constituent. Of course, Albert represented Oklahoma, and Morwith an oil firm in Albert's home district.

Again in July, 1975, Morton turned up in the FEA's offices in New Orleans. He mentioned that a politician had offered to get oil for Parish for $50,000. Parish never got the oil, but the FEA began investigating the bribe request.

For the ensuing 18 months, the investigation has been going around in circles. Two rival FEA offices spent part of the time chasing one another in a

The Atlanta regional office had the special pleaders, who play all the authority over the Parish oil allocation, so Atlanta began the investigation. But the Dallas regional office had jurisdiction over New Orleans. The Dallas office became offended, therefore, when the Atlanta office investigated the New Orleans office - and the wrong people in New Orleans at that.

> This infuriated Del Fowler, the head of the Dallas office. He threatened to arrest any Atlanta investigators who infringed on his jurisdiction. Fowler then took over the investigation, which grounded to a halt in 1975 but has now been reopened. Inside sources say it is close to comple-

> Footnote: We contacted Morton who referred us to the erstwhile president of Parish, James Richard Vermillion. The latter described the case as a "misunderstanding." There had been no misuse of the money, he said, except that the lawyer's fee had been too high. An FEA spokesman added that the investigation shows no government employes were involved in the bribery

No gains on trade with China

In Washington

By MARTHA ANGLE and ROBERT WALTERS

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Five years ago this week, President Richard M. Nixon made his historic journey to the People's Republic of China, marking the first time an American president had ever visited that nation.

Nixon, never known to shrink from hyperbole, proclaimed on that occasion: What we do here can change the world

This is the hour. This is the day for our two peoples to rise to the heights of greatness from which we can build a new and better world."

There were, indeed, high hopes that Nixon's bold and unprecedented venture would mark the beginning of a new era in Sino-U.S. relations - and nowhere were those expectations higher than in the area of international commerce.

Corporate executives in this country, visions dancing in their heads of the opening of a previously untapped and vast new market, made plans to sell the Chinese everything from cosmetics to steel mills.

"Both sides view bilateral trade as another area from which mutual benefit can be derived," said the landmark Shanghai Communique issued by the two governments on Feb. 27, 1972. "They agree to facilitate the progressive development of trade between their two countries.'

But precisely a half-decade later, nothing of the sort has happened. In fact, previously unpublished figures show that in 1976 the value of all United States exports to China plummeted for the second consecutive year, to the lowest level since the signing of the Shanghai Communique.

(The value of United States imports from China has grown each year since 1972, but the annual increases have been quite modest and the rate of growth has slipped significantly in each year.)

Some figures: The value of all United States exports to China was $63.5 million in 1972. There was a dramatic surge to $740.2 million in 1973, and another increase to $819.1 million in 1974. But the figure sank to $303.6 million in 1975, then dropped sharply again to $135.4 million in

What happened? Experts in the field cite the disruptive effects of the deaths last year of both Prime Minister Chou En-lai and Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung, the fierce leadership struggle which followed Mao's death and the trio of devastating earthquakes which rocked China.

"They also have been quite blunt about the establishment of diplomatic relations," says Nicholas H. Ludlow of The National Council for U.S.-China Relations, an organization of American corporations anxious to do business with the

"They have made it clear that without full recognition, trade will grow only modestly but with it, trade will expand quite rapidly," adds Ludlow.

Less publicized is the fact that many firms have been disillusioned by the confrontation with what one source calls "an enormous, unpredictable Chinese bureaucracy" which is notably uninterested in conforming to Western business practices.

One heretofore closely guarded secret among the manufacturers of agricultural chemicals is that the Chinese have subjected to laboratory analyses the pesticides and herbicides they purchased several years ago, in an apparent effort to duplicate those products without regard for patent rights.

Domestic politics in this country havealso played a major role in the temporary collapse of the Sino-U.S. trade dream. Nixon, of course, was forced to abandon his China initiative when confronted by the Watergate scandal.

His successor, President Gerald R. Ford, took a perfunctory trip to China, but made little progress because of a lack of both an interest in the subject and the respect of the Chinese.

But if President Carter can gain at least working control of the domestic problems and can divert some of his attention from the Middle East, southern Africa and other international "hot spots," the promise of the early 1970s could be his to fulfill.

Tiger miler takes second in NAIA meet

KANSAS CITY - Smith-Cotton High School's Greg Lovercamp took second place in the mile in the high school division of the NAIA Indoor Track and Field Championships run here Friday and Saturday

Lovercamp covered the mile in 4:31.9 in Saturday night's competition to finish behind Rockhurst's Tim Jantsch, who had a time of 4:26.3.

Friday night, Smith-Cotton's Bruce Kerr won the 60-yard high hurdles. His 7.7 clocking tied the Tiger school record for the event.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) -The Amalgamated Meat Cutters Union, Local 596, Sunday overwhelmingly rejected a contract proposal by the Dugdale Packing Co.

Union officials said the vote was 164 against the contract and 6 in favor. The proposal included a 90-cent an hour increase over three years.

The Dugdale plant was closed Jan. 5, company officials said, because of threats by the union concerning a possible strike. A union official was quoted as saying the union would wait to "strike until the company was most vulnerable.

The union has picketed since Jan. 5 charging the company with a lockout.

George Liechti, president of Dugdale, said the contract proposal was the firm's last offer. He said that in view of the rejection the union should change its picket signs from "lockout" to "on strike."

Following rejection of the contract Sunday, union officials called on Dugdale to reopen the plant and resume negotiations. They said the rejection was based on the fact union members received increases totaling $1.05 over three years in a recent settlement with another meat packing firm in St. Joseph.

Liechti said the company had no plans to resume

Phony $20 bills attract police in Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP) - If a man passing out $20 bills is sure to attract attention, a man passing out phony $20 bills will attract even more.

That was the lesson learned by a Kansas City man arrested Sunday after distributing counterfeit bills at a city interection.

The man told police he found the money in a sack while rummaging through a trash barrel and decided to share his newfound wealth with his

He was taken into custody after police received a telephone call that a man was giving away money at an intersection. Authorities had earlier discovered two of the bills on another man picked up for drunkeness.

Secret Service agents said police recovered $17,000 in the bogus bills, which they speculated were thrown away because of their poor quality.

The man, police said, was not happy to see his fortune disappear.

"And I was going to retire," he said as officers led him

City animal officer joins organization

Sedalia animal control officer Dennis Rogers, 801 North Grand, recently attended an organizational meeting of the Missouri Animal Control Association in Columbia.

The program, sponsored by the University of Missouri Col-lege of Veterinary Medicine and the MU Extension Divison, is designed to provide training for individuals throughout the state in the animal control area.

Officers of the new organization are Bob Mohart, Kansas City, president; Sam Jones, St. Charles, vice president; and Charles Frisbie, Columbia, secretarytreasurer.

Subjects at the meeting covered public relations, veterinary medicine, humane education, office procedures and shelter equipment and management.

Area men named as new directors

Armor Bertz, Lexington, and Jim Thieman, Concordia, were among those recently elected to the board of directors of the Missouri chapter of the American Shorthorn Association.

Bill Martin, Frankford, was named president of the Missouri group
